

Young Mother And Three Kiddies Perish Early Sunday As Fire Levels Mountain Home Near Emmitsburg

Maryland authorities today continued their investigation of a fire near Emmitsburg, which caused the deaths of a 30-year-old mother and three of her children early Sunday morning.

Those who died when flames consumed the log home of George Bernard Wills, three miles southwest of Emmitsburg, were:

Mrs. Grace Elizabeth Wills, 30, wife of George Bernard Wills and a daughter of the late Samuel Wills, ten months old; Ronald Eugene Wills, aged four, and Richard Bernard Wills, aged six.

Dr. R. W. Baer, Frederick, Frederick county medical examiner, and Maryland State police from Frederick, who are conducting the probe, said that survivors of the fire gave the following details of the tragedy:

George Bernard Wills, 27, husband of one of the victims and father of the three children, was downstairs in the four-room house about 7:15 o'clock Sunday morning. With him were two brothers, Carroll Christopher Wills, 31, and John Anthony Wills, 33, of Emmitsburg, who were visiting their brother.

Tried to Warn Steepers

A kerosene stove which had been burning all night exploded and the house was engulfed in flames. While George and John Wills escaped from the home through the front door Carroll went upstairs to arouse the mother and three children who were still abed on the second floor.

Wills was unable to locate the four because of the smoke and flames, and finally made his escape through one of the two small windows in the second floor of the house. He was painfully burned in the rescue attempt.

While Carroll was seeking to waken the sleeping members of the family, the other two brothers were notifying the fire company. The Emmitsburg firemen arrived to find the house almost consumed by the conflagration.

Treated for Burns

Carroll Wills later was treated by an Emmitsburg physician for burns about the face and arm.

He told police that when he opened the door to the stairway that led to the second floor a draft was apparently created and the flames were sucked through the open door and up the stairway. He said he had to run to keep ahead of the flames while attempting to find the upstairs occupants.

The three men said they had been seated in the living room of the house downstairs when the stove exploded. They said the living room was spattered with flame when the stove blew up.

The Wills home was located about three miles from Emmitsburg on the Annandale road, near the Emmitsburg reservoir.

Two children of Mrs. Wills by a former marriage, Cyrus D. and Catherine Manahan, were visiting with their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Cyrus Manahan, near Emmitsburg, at the time of the catastrophe.

Services Tuesday

The Emmitsburg firemen remained at the scene from the time of their arrival, about 8 o'clock Sunday morning, until about 1 o'clock Sunday afternoon and aided in removal of the bodies.

Surviving are the husband and father, George Bernard Wills, the two children Cyrus D. and Catherine Manahan, and the following sisters and brothers of Mrs. Wills: John and Guy Cool, of Baltimore; Mrs. George Fecher, Fairfield; Mrs. William Ott, Mrs. Roger Adams and Mrs. Carroll Wills, all of Emmitsburg. Harry Small, Breckenridge street, here; Marie Clabaugh, Chambersburg street, and "Hockie" Small, Washington street, are uncles and aunts of Mrs. Wills.

The Rosary will be recited this evening at 8 o'clock at the Allison funeral home, West Main street, Emmitsburg, for the four victims. The joint funeral will be held Tuesday morning at 9 o'clock from St. Joseph's Catholic church, Emmitsburg, with the Rev. Fr. Michael O'Brien officiating. Interment in St. Mary's Catholic cemetery, Fairfield.

LANDS IN JAIL AFTER FLEEING SHERIFF TWICE THIS MORNING

C. Eugene Moul, Bairs Station, was found innocent of a worthless check charge in Adams county court this morning; was then immediately arrested on a charge of cheating by false pretense and was just about to obtain bail on that charge when he decided to run away.

He was chased twice by Sheriff Dorsey J. Schultz, and finally wound up in jail, scheduled to face several additional charges in connection with the attempt to escape.

Moul's busy morning began at 9:30 o'clock when his trial on a worthless check charge began. As soon as all testimony was completed, about 11:20 o'clock, the court directed the jury to bring in a verdict of not guilty and to decide who should pay the costs. The man was charged with issuing a worthless check on September 24, 1949, to purchase a $600 car from Lerew's garage, East Berlin, but the check was dated September 28, 1949. The court quoted several opinions showing that when a check is postdated a charge of issuing a worthless check on a specific date cannot be sustained. Judge Sheely also noted that it might be possible other charges could be brought on the offense.

ELKS CONDUCT ANNUAL RITES SUNDAY NIGHT

Three aspects of immortality were outlined by the Rev. Wallace E. Fisher, pastor of Christ Lutheran church in his address at the annual memorial services held by the Gettysburg Lodge of Elks Sunday evening at the Elks home.

During the last year eight members of the lodge died. They were W. Preston Hull, Mervin E. Crouse, J. Donald Swope, Winfield G. Horner, William C. VanCleave, William N. Hartman, William L. Means and Charles B. Dougherty.

"The Life That Shall Endless Be" was the subject of the Rev. Mr. Fisher's address. As his first aspect of immortality the Rev. Mr. Fisher asked "Is death the end? Does it bring oblivion? Is this life in time and space all that we can expect?" Second, "What is the nature of Christian immortality? What does our pioneer, Christ Jesus, tell us concerning heaven and hell?"

In concluding the Rev. Mr. Fisher said, "The fact of death, of final judgment and eternal fellowship with or separate from Christ—this compels every man to choose: a morbid fear, childish self delusions or faith in Him, who is the 'Resurrection and the Life.'"

Judging of the store windows entered by Gettysburg merchants in The Gettysburg Times window display contest was completed Saturday night.

First prizes of $25 each were won by Blocher's jewelry store, Chambersburg street; the Lane Studio, York street, and the Wayside Flower shop, South Washington street.

Winners of the second prizes of $15 each were Tobey's, Baltimore street; Lippy's, Chambersburg street, and the Mary Ramer insurance agency, Baltimore street.

It took more than four hours to complete the task of judging the 58 window displays. Judging was done on a point system, and in many instances only one point separated the contestants, so close was the judging.

Judges are "amazed"

The judges were "amazed," they said, at the ingenuity displayed and the effort expended by the merchants in their window displays, particularly in view of the fact that all but one or two windows were decorated without the assistance of a professional window trimmer.

Three Scientists And Two Red Organizers Cited For Contempt

Washington, Dec. 4 (AP)—Three scientists who worked on the atomic bomb and two men identified as veteran Communist organizers were indicted today for contempt of Congress.

The indictments returned by a Federal grand jury named Steve Nelson, 47, Communist party organizer for western Pennsylvania who allegedly set up a Red cell in the wartime University of California radiation laboratory.

Marcel Scherer, 51, like Nelson linked by the House Un-American Activities committee with Red infiltration of the radiation laboratory.

David Joseph Bohm, 33, Giovanni Rossi Lomanitz, 29, and Irving David Fox, 30, scientists who worked in the radiation laboratory in connection with development of the atomic bomb.

All five indictments were based on refusal to answer questions by the House Un-American Activities committee.

All five were asked—and refused to say—whether they were or ever had been members of the Communist party. The indictment against Nelson, however, was the only one to make this the basis of a criminal charge.

William Hiltz, Assistant U. S. Attorney, said Nelson's refusal to answer the Communist question was included in the indictment against him because he volunteered that he had been a long-time Communist, yet refused to answer when he was asked.

The five were named by a Federal grand jury sitting before District Judge Edward A. Tamm.

The maximum penalty for contempt of Congress upon conviction is a year in jail and a $1,000 fine on each count.

PROTESTANTS HAIL STEP TO CHURCH UNITY

Hailing the formation of the National Council of the Churches of Christ in the U.S.A. as an evidence of "unity in the spirit of Christ with uniformity," the Rev. Dr. Jesse D. Reber, Harrisburg, in a sermon at a community service here Sunday evening said true unity must begin "at the community and congregational level before it can come to the world."

Dr. Reber, associate general secretary of the Pennsylvania Council of Churches, spoke at the union service in which Protestant churches of the town joined Sunday evening in Christ Lutheran church. Eight local pastors participated in the service which celebrated the formation of the new Council of Churches at Cleveland last week.

"Sectarianism is giving way to unity in the spirit of Christ," Dr. Reber asserted. "The church faces a (Continued on Page 7)

POSTS BAIL ON GUN CHARGE

Fred White, Aspers R. 1, posted $500 bail with Justice of the Peace John H. Baschore Saturday afternoon for a hearing Tuesday night on a charge of pointing a gun at George D. Sandoe, also of Aspers R. 1. White was arrested Saturday by state police of the Gettysburg substation.

Sandoe, authorities, was awakened at his home at 4:15 a.m. on November 30 by someone at his door. Going to the door, he found Mrs. White standing in her night clothing, holding a baby in her arms.

Sandoe let her in, and a short time later White came to the house looking for his wife. He was armed with a shotgun, which Sandoe said he pointed at Sandoe's abdomen.

Sandoe, authorities said, wrested the gun from White and later filed the charge. Police said they were told White had had an argument with his wife before she went to the Sandoe home seeking shelter. She spent the remainder of the night at the home of another neighbor.

Yankees Continue Bitter Retreat Through Capital Of Red Korea; 10th Corps May Be Isolated By Enemy

Tokyo, Dec. 4 (AP)—United Nations forces threw up a rear-guard shield 10 miles north of Pyongyang today to protect their bitter retreat south through that tense former Red Korean capital.

Little fighting was reported in that northwest sector. But Lt. Gen. Walton H. Walker, U.S. Eighth Army commander, said the Red Chinese had rolled five armies of 15 divisions—up to 150,000 men—south of the Chongchon river within striking distance of Pyongyang.

These were the shock troops of more than 1,000,000 Chinese that General MacArthur said were either in Korea or heading for the battlefronts from Manchuria and central China.

In the bitterly cold northeast, reinforced Chinese mounted a critical and more immediate threat to the U.S. Marines and four other U.N. divisions.

The Reds were driving on the twin east coast industrial cities of Hamhung and Hungnam. They threatened to isolate the entire 10th Corps. Its five divisions are widely scattered over the rugged northeast Korea icebox.

Fight Red Trap

Marines and doughboys battled desperately to break out of deep Red traps in the Changjin reservoir area. AP Correspondent Tom Stone reported Chinese pressure on them eased somewhat Monday, however.

The Chinese oddly released 27 wounded Americans in the reservoir sector. This brought to 84 Americans similarly released.

In the northwest, AP Correspondent Leif Erickson reported that the Eighth Army's retreat eventually might wind up along a defense line around the Republic capital of Seoul and its port of Inchon. He said it did not appear possible to set up a line across the peninsula, lining with the scattered 10th Corps.

Erickson said Walker apparently was directing a skillful escape from the familiar Chinese envelopment tactics.

Massive Red Force

Allied fighters and bombers pounded incessantly at the Chinese and remnant of Korean Red forces throughout North Korea.

So massive were the oncoming Chinese forces, however, that it appeared likely they could power through into South Korea if such a decision was made by the Red high command.

Far behind Allied forces on the east coast, a Chinese force was wheeling from the middle of the peninsula toward the supply port of Wonsan. This thrust threatened to cut off the 10th Corps with its back to the Sea of Japan.

AP Correspondent Jack Macbeth reported that elements of the U.S. Third division were under intensified Red pressure near Hukus, about 35 miles west of Hamhung. Hukus, taken by the Chinese, was bombed heavily.

The Third Division is the most recently-arrived American unit in Korea. It landed after U.N. forces had pushed north of Parallel 38 in October.

Part Of 7th Withdrawn

Farther north, at Hyesanjin, the 17th regiment of the Seventh Division was ordered to withdraw from positions along a 10-mile stretch of the Yalu river. It was the only American outfit to reach the Manchurian border.

There were no reports Sunday from the Republic Of Korea (ROK) Capital Division far to the northeast on the road to the Soviet Siberian border.

Earlier reports had placed the division within 40 miles of the border, rolling along the coast north of Chongjin under the covering guns of the U.S. cruiser St. Paul.

Likewise, there were no reports Sunday as to the whereabouts of the ROK Third Division. It last was placed inland on the left and south flank of the Capital Division.

Capital Is Tense

American dead and wounded in the bitter northeast retreat, if assessed, still are a matter of security. AP Photographer Frank Noel was reported captured near Koto, 35 miles northwest of Hamhung.

A public information officer said Noel was seized when Chinese Reds ambushed a convoy trying to break through to a cut-off Marine regiment.

In Pyongyang, AP Correspondent Tom Lambert reported tension and fear was mirrored on the faces of (Continued on Page 2)

HIGH WATERS FLOOD MANY COUNTY ROADS

Flash floods which followed more than two inches of rainfall early this morning sent creeks throughout Adams county out of their banks and closed many highways, temporarily, and slowed down traffic on others.

The state Highway department said the Hanover-Cross Keys road was closed this morning at the Adams-York county line just north of Hanover when a small creek overflowed its banks and covered the highway.

The Hanover-Littlestown road was closed at the Hanover shoe farms, and two feet of water over the Gettysburg-Hanover road at the west borough line of McSherrystown closed this highway to traffic.

Water spread over the highway near Fairfield and at Zora. The Conwago overflowed its banks and flooded the Biglerville road. The Lincoln highway a mile west of (Continued on Page 8)

MISS SHEELY WEDS SUNDAY

Miss Ethel Viola Sheely, daughter of Mrs. Viola Shank, 142-A West High street, and Elwood Eugene Laughman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Laughman, Hanover R. 4, were united in marriage Sunday at 3 p.m. in a double ring ceremony performed in St. James Lutheran church by the pastor, the Rev. Dr. Ralph R. Gresh.

Miss Marian Woodward, Baltimore street, was the maid of honor. The best man was Richard Laughman, brother of the bridegroom.

The bride wore a white net over satin gown, finger-tip veil and long white mitts ending in a point over the hand. She carried a white Bible with an orchid from which satin ribbons fell. The maid of honor wore a blue gown. She carried a bouquet of mixed roses.

Following the ceremony a reception for approximately 60 guests was held in the church dining room. A three-tiered wedding cake topped by a miniature bridegroom and bride was placed on the bride's table.

The bride is employed by the Gettysburg Throwing company. Mr. Laughman is employed at the Gettysburg Furniture factory.

The couple will reside for the present at the home of the bride's parents.

Christmas Program Given At Co. Home

The Women's Society of Christian Service of the Gettysburg Methodist church conducted its annual Christmas meeting at the Adams county home Sunday afternoon with a treat of oranges for the home guests after the special program.

Miss Verna Kitzmiller was in charge and the Junior choir sang a number of Christmas carols under the direction of Mrs. Robert Dearlendorf. Mrs. Forrest Craver read "Why the Chimes Rang" and Miss Wynona Woodward read a Christmas prayer.

The Christmas program was given at the time of the society's monthly visit to the county home, a custom that has been carried on for a quarter of a century.

Young Mother And Three Kiddies Perish Early Sunday As Fire Levels Mountain Home Near Emmitsburg

Maryland authorities today continued their investigation of a fire near Emmitsburg, which caused the deaths of a 30-year-old mother and three of her children early Sunday morning.

Those who died when flames consumed the log home of George Bernard Wills, three miles southwest of Emmitsburg, were:

Mrs. Grace Elizabeth Wills, 30, wife of George Bernard Wills, a daughter of the late Samuel and Mary Small Cool, and three of her children: Charles Edward Wills, ten months old; Ronald Eugene Wills, aged four, and Richard Bernard Wills, aged six.

Dr. R. W. Baer, Frederick, Frederick county medical examiner, and Maryland State police from Frederick, who are conducting the probe, said that survivors of the fire gave the following details of the tragedy:

George Bernard Wills, 27, husband of one of the victims and father of the three children, was downstairs in the four-room house about 7:15 o'clock Sunday morning. With him were two brothers, Carroll Christopher Wills, 31, and John Anthony Wills, 33, of Emmitsburg, who were visiting their brother.

Tried to Warn Sleepers
A kerosene stove which had been burning all night exploded and the house was engulfed in flames. While George and John Wills escaped from the home through the front door, Carroll went upstairs to arouse the mother and three children who were still abed on the second floor.

Wills was unable to locate the four because of the smoke and flames, and finally made his escape through one of the two small windows in the second floor of the house. He was painfully burned in the rescue attempt.

While Carroll was seeking to waken the sleeping members of the family, the other two brothers were notifying the fire company. The Emmitsburg firemen arrived to find the house almost consumed by the conflagration.

Treated for Burns
Carroll Wills later was treated by an Emmitsburg physician for burns about the face and arm.

He told police that when he opened the door to the stairway that led to the second floor a draft was apparently created and the flames were sucked through the open door and up the stairway. He said he had to run to keep ahead of the flames while attempting to find the upstairs occupants.

The three men said they had been seated in the living room of the house downstairs when the stove exploded. They said the living room was spattered with flame when the stove blew up.

The Wills home was located about three miles from Emmitsburg on the Annandale road, near the Emmitsburg reservoir.

Two children of Mrs. Wills by a former marriage, Cyrus D. and Catherine Manahan, were visiting with their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Cyrus Manahan, near Emmitsburg, at the time of the catastrophe.

Services Tuesday
The Emmitsburg firemen remained at the scene from the time of their arrival, about 8 o'clock Sunday morning, until about 1 o'clock Sunday afternoon and aided in removal of the bodies.

Surviving are the husband and father, George Bernard Wills, the two children Cyrus D. and Catherine Manahan, and the following sisters and brothers of Mrs. Wills: John and Guy Cool, of Baltimore; Mrs. George Pecher, Fairfield; Mrs. William Ott, Mrs. Roger Adams and Mrs. Carroll Wills, all of Emmitsburg. Harry Small, Breckenridge street, here; Marie Claiborne, Chambersburg street, and "Hokie" Small, Washington street, are uncles and aunts of Mrs. Wills.

The Rosary will be recited this evening at 8 o'clock at the Allison funeral home, West Main street, Emmitsburg, for the four victims. The joint funeral will be held Tuesday morning at 9 o'clock from St. Joseph's Catholic church, Emmitsburg, with the Rev. Fr. Michael O'Brien officiating. ELKS CONDUCT ANNUAL RITES SUNDAY NIGHT

Three aspects of immortality were outlined by the Rev. Wallace E. Fisher, pastor of Christ Lutheran church in his address at the annual memorial services held by the Gettysburg Lodge of Elks Sunday evening at the Elks home.

During the last year eight members of the lodge died. They were W. Preston Hull, Mervin E. Crouse, J. Donald Swope, Winfield G. Horner, William C. VanCleave, William N. Hartman, William L. Meals and Charles B. Dougherty.

"The Life That Shall Endless Be" was the subject of the Rev. Mr. Fisher's address. As his first aspect of immortality the Rev. Mr. Fisher asked "Is death the end? Does it bring oblivion? Is this life in time and space all that we can expect?" Second, "What is the nature of Christian immortality? What does our pioneer, Christ Jesus, tell us concerning heaven and hell?"

In concluding the Rev. Mr. Fisher said, "The fact of death, of final judgment and eternal fellowship with or separate from Christ—this compels every man to choose morbid fear, childish self delusions or faith in Him, who is the 'Resurrection and the Life.'"

Judges Select Nine Winners In Christmas Window Display Contest Sponsored By Times

Judging of the store windows entered by Gettysburg merchants in The Gettysburg Times window display contest was completed Saturday night.

First prizes of $25 each were won by Blocher's jewelry store, Chambersburg street; the Lane Studio, York street, and the Wayside Flower shop, South Washington street.

Winners of the second prizes of $15 each were Tobey's, Baltimore street; Lippy's, Chambersburg street, and the Mary Ramer insurance agency, Baltimore street.

Third prizes of $10 each went to Wentz furniture store, Baltimore street; the Gift Box, Chambersburg street, and Coffman Jewelry store, Chambersburg street.

Three Judges

The judges were Robert L. Kumlér, creative director of the W. H. Long company, national advertising agency, York; Grover Gouker, president of the Junior Chamber of Commerce, Hanover, and Maxwell D. Bucklew, director of public relations, Knouse Foods Cooperative, Inc., Peach Glen.

Fifty-eight merchants entered the contest. The windows were judged on originality, arrangement of merchandise, lighting, coordination, cleanliness and informative value. Three prizes of $25, $15 and $10 were awarded in three classifications.

It took more than four hours to complete the task of judging the 58 window displays. Judging was done on a point system, and in many instances only one point separated the contestants, so close was the judging.

Judges Are "Amazed"

The judges were "amazed," they said, at the ingenuity displayed and the effort expended by the merchants in their window displays, particularly in view of the fact that all but one or two windows were decorated without the assistance of a professional window trimmer.

PROTESTANTS HAIL STEP TO CHURCH UNITY

Hailing the formation of the National Council of the Churches of Christ in the U.S.A. as an evidence of "unity in the spirit of Christ with uniformity," the Rev. Dr. Jesse D. Reber, Harrisburg, in a sermon at Adams community service here Sunday evening said true unity must begin "at the community and congregational level before it can come to the world."

Dr. Reber, associate general secretary of the Pennsylvania Council of Churches, spoke at the union service in which Protestant churches of the town joined Sunday evening in Christ Lutheran church. Eight local pastors participated in the service which celebrated the formation of the new Council of Churches at Cleveland last week.

"Sectarianism is giving way to unity in the spirit of Christ," Dr. Reber asserted. "The church faces a

POSTS BAIL ON GUN CHARGE

Fred White, Aspers R. 1, posted $500 bail with Justice of the Peace John H. Baschore Saturday afternoon for a hearing Tuesday night on a charge of pointing a gun at George D. Sandoe, also of Aspers R. 1. White was arrested Saturday by state police of the Gettysburg substation.

Sandoe, authorities, was awakened at his home at 4:15 a.m. on November 30 by someone at his door. Going to the door, he found Mrs. White standing in her night clothing, holding a baby in her arms.

Sandoe let her in, and a short time later White came to the house looking for his wife. He was armed with a shotgun, which Sandoe said he pointed at Sandoe's abdomen.

Sandoe, authorities said, wrested the gun from White and later fled the charge. Police said they were told White had had an argument with his wife before she went to the Sandoe home seeking shelter. She spent the remainder of the night at the home of another neighbor.

Yankees Continue Bitter Retreat Through Capital Of Red Korea; 10th Corps May Be Isolated By Enemy

Tokyo, Dec. 4 (AP)—United Nations forces threw up a rear-guard shield 10 miles north of Pyongyang today to protect their bitter retreat south through that tense former Red Korean capital.

Little fighting was reported in that northwest sector. But Lt. Gen. Walton H. Walker, U.S. Eighth Army commander, said the Red Chinese had rolled five armies of 15 divisions—up to 150,000 men—south of the Chongchon river within striking distance of Pyongyang.

These were the shock troops of more than 1,000,000 Chinese that General MacArthur said were either in Korea or heading for the battlefronts from Manchuria and central China.

In the bitterly cold northeast, reinforced Chinese mounted a critical and more immediate threat to the U.S. Marines and four other U.N. divisions.

The Reds were driving on the twin east coast industrial cities of Hamhung and Hungnam. They threatened to isolate the entire 10th Corps. Its five divisions are widely scattered over the rugged northeast Korea icebox.

HIGH WATERS FLOOD MANY COUNTY ROADS

Floods which followed more than two inches of rainfall early this morning sent creeks throughout Adams county out of their banks and closed many highways, temporarily, and slowed down traffic on others.

The state Highway department said the Hanover-Cross Keys road was closed this morning at the Adams-York county line just north of Hanover when a small creek overflowed its banks and covered the highway.

The Hanover-Littlestown road was closed at the Hanover shoe farms, and two feet of water over the Gettysburg-Hanover road at the west borough line of McSherrystown closed this highway to traffic.

Water spread over the highway near Fairfield and at Zora. The Conango overflowed its banks and flooded the Biglerville road. The Lincoln highway a mile west of (Continued on Page 8)

MISS SHEELY WEDS SUNDAY

Miss Ethel Viola Sheely, daughter of Mrs. Viola Shank, 142-A West High street, and Elwood Eugene Laughman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Laughman, Hanover R. 4, were united in marriage Sunday at 3 p.m. in a double ring ceremony performed in St. James Lutheran church by the pastor, the Rev. Dr. Ralph R. Gresh.

Miss Marian Woodward, Baltimore street, was the maid of honor. The best man was Richard Laughman, brother of the bridegroom.

The bride wore a white net over satin gown, finger-tip veil and long white mitts ending in a point over the hand. She carried a white Bible with an orchid from which satin ribbons fell. The maid of honor wore a blue gown. She carried a bouquet of mixed rosebuds.

Following the ceremony a reception for approximately 60 guests was held in the church dining room. A three-tiered wedding cake topped by a miniature bridegroom and bride was placed on the bride's table.

The bride is employed by the Gettysburg Throwing company. Mr. Laughman is employed at the Gettysburg Furniture factory.

The couple will reside for the present at the home of the bride's parents.

Christmas Program Given At Co. Home

The Women's Society of Christian Service of the Gettysburg Methodist church conducted its annual Christmas meeting at the Adams county home Sunday afternoon with a treat of oranges for the home guests after the special program.

Miss Verna Kitzmiller was in charge and the Junior choir sang a number of Christmas carols under the direction of Mrs. Robert Dearth. Mrs. Forrest Craver read "Why the Chimes Rang" and Miss Wynona Woodward read a Christmas prayer.

The Christmas program was given at the time of the society's monthly visit to the county home, a custom that has been carried on for a quarter of a century.

Fight Red Trap

Marines and doughboys battled desperately to break out of deep Red traps in the Changlin reservoir area. AP Correspondent Tom Stone reported Chinese pressure on them eased somewhat Monday, however.

The Chinese oddly released 27 wounded Americans in the reservoir sector. This brought to 84 Americans similarly released.

In the northwest, AP Correspondent Leif Erickson reported that the Eighth Army's retreat eventually might wind up along a defense line around the Republic capital of Seoul and its port of Inchon. He said it did not appear possible to set up a line across the peninsula, lining with the scattered 10th Corps.

Erickson said Walker apparently was directing a skillful escape from the familiar Chinese envelopment tactics.

Massive Red Force
Allied fighters and bombers pounded incessantly at the Chinese and remnant of Korean Red forces throughout North Korea.

So massive were the oncoming Chinese forces, however, that it appeared likely they could power through into South Korea if such a decision was made by the Red high command.

Far behind Allied forces on the east coast, a Chinese force was wheeling from the middle of the peninsula toward the supply port of Wonsan. This thrust threatened to cut off the 10th Corps with its back to the Sea of Japan.

AP Correspondent Jack Macbeth reported that elements of the U.S. Third division were under intensified Red pressure near Huku, about 35 miles west of Hamhung. Huku, taken by the Chinese, was bombed heavily.

The Third Division is the most recently-arr

LANDS IN JAIL

osts on Moul. Moul was unable to pay immediately and was placed in custody of the sheriff. At the same time he was arrested on a charge of heating and false pretense in connection with the purchase of the car from Lerew.

Bolted for Pills

Taken before Jus ice of the Peace John H. Basehore, Moul, while waiting for his bondsman and the district attorney to conclude their discussion, told the sheriff he was ill and asked to be taken to the men's room.

In the men's room on the second floor of the Murphy building, he asked the sheriff to go back to the district's office and get a glass so he could drink some water.

When the sheriff stepped out of the bathroom to get the glass, Moul bolted down the stairs from the second floor and the sheriff gave chase. That flight went south on Baltimore street and around the corner on West Middle street before the sheriff caught up with Moul who told the sheriff he was sick and said he planned to get some pills from his truck. Shultz took him to the truck where it appeared that the pills could not be found.

The sheriff returned Moul to the district's office in the Murphy building. As they were starting up the steps again, Moul leaned over, saying something about his shoe, then he whirled and began to run north on Baltimore street, with the sheriff in pursuit.

"He Went That Way"

The chase continued around Lincoln Square to Chambersburg street and Moul ran west on Chambersburg street, with the sheriff shouting to people along the street to halt the fugitive. A number of people attempted to grab Moul, but he eluded them.

At Christ Lutheran church Moul ran across the lawn of the church to the alley. By this time he had gotten ahead of the sheriff, but persons along the street kept telling the sheriff "He went that way."

While the chase was going on Mrs. Charles Hess, Sr., who was staying at the home of her son in the first block of South Washington street, was feeding Charles Junior Hess's children, 12-year-old Nancy, 8-year-old Patricia and one and a half year old Terry. They were waiting the arrival of Charles Junior Hess from his work as a clerk in the City Market.

Suddenly the front door opened and a man came into the front room and sat down on a sofa. Mrs. Hess went to the living room and the man asked if he could have an alk-seltzer.

Sheriff Turns Up

The sheriff meanwhile ran down the alley to South Washington street.

Charles Junior Hess, who had just about reached home when he saw Moul run into his house, called to the sheriff, "He went in here," and held the door open for the sheriff to enter the home. The sheriff grabbed Moul and took him from the house. Hess said she did not have time to answer Moul's question before the sheriff appeared and nabbed him. The children did not see the intruder.

Moul was placed in jail in default of bail on the cheating by false pretense charge, his bondsman having changed his mind after Moul attempted to escape. In addition he was in jail for failure to pay the costs in the bad check case.

And the sheriff added that by this afternoon Moul will also face some charges of attempting to escape the law—filed by the sheriff personally.

Jury members in the Moul case included Clarence Boyd, Littlestown R. 2; J. S. Deatrick, Aspers R. 1; John H. Flickinger, Littlestown; Mrs. Viola Gebhart, Hanover R. 4; Erdene Haar, New Oxford R. D.; James Harter, Fairfield; John Kendeheart, Highland avenue; Mrs. Naomi Lippy, Littlestown R. 1; William Rentzel, Fairfield R. 1; Mervin R. Singley, McKnightstown; Lillian B. Stockman, New Oxford R. D.; and Thelma Shea, South Washington street.

GIVES LIFE TO SAVE OTHERS

Dallas, Dec. 4 (P)— A National guard flyer yesterday elected to die in his flaming jet fighter rather than risk the lives of scores of Sunday drivers.

First Lt. James Arthur Bradley of Dallas was killed when he flew the burning plane off the Hensley field runway and over about 100 automobiles parked at the end of the strip. He crash landed in a thinly populated area just beyond the field.

Lt. Col. B. M. Taylor, base commander, said he would recommend Bradley for the Congressional Medal of Honor because the lieutenant's action probably saved many lives.

An internal explosion in the F-84 jet set it afire on the take-off. Officers watching said Bradley could have stopped this takeoff and escaped. But the automobiles, filled with spectators, were parked at the end of the runway.

He flew the plane over the cars rather than risk plowing through a wire fence and into them.

Bradley, 32, was a veteran of 129 combat missions in World War II. He was married and the father of two young children. He was attached to the 181st Fighter Squadron of the Texas Air National Guard.

the civilians. Thousand joined the slow military processions from the city.

"Tense and silent, this one-time Communist capital awaits the return of its former red masters," Lambert reported.

He said the city hall was deserted Sunday. Municipal government ceased functioning. Shopkeepers boarded up their store fronts.

Damage Suit Is Settled In Court

When the defendants agreed to pay the plaintiffs $6,553.85, a suit growing out of a highway accident more than a year ago was settled Friday in the York county court not long after it was filed.

The suit was brought by Mr. and Mrs. Cameron C. Spangler and their son, Donald W., 17, West York, against Mr. and Mrs. Emory W. Sell, Jr., East Berlin, and their son, Richard.

Donald suffered fractures of the breast bone, shoulder bone, pelvis, and both legs and was compelled to have one of his kidneys removed as a result of the mishap.

The injured youth was a passenger in a jeep driven by Richard Sell when it swerved off the highway between Hampton and East Berlin and hit an embankment. Spangler was thrown out of the vehicle. The accident occurred May 28, 1949.

NAVY WIN WILL HAVE NO EFFECT ON DEEMPHASIS

Philadelphia, Dec. 4 (AP)—Navy accepted college football's accolades today for its stunning 14-2 conquest of mighty Army but remained firm in its determination to soften future schedules.

"This victory, pleasant as it was, will have no effect on our little deemphasis program," said Capt. Howard Caldwell, athletic director of the Annapolis academy.

"We simply can't go on playing a back-breaking schedule year-in and year-out. It's suicidal."

Navy already has cancelled its 1952-53 home-and-home agreement with Ohio State. It will play Rice next year in Houston and has asked the southwest school to drop the 1952 game at Baltimore.

"This thing of playing Southern California one week, then Penn and then a team like Tulane—why, the boys never get a chance to heal their bruises between knocks," said Caldwell.

"We would like to keep some of the tough teams—Notre Dame, certainly, and possibly Penn and Princeton. But we'd like to mix in a few softer spots here and there."

Navy officials feel that the Mid-dies, who won only three of their nine games, might have had an excellent season if they hadn't bitten off more schedule than they could chew.

Aided By Rest
"I think one of the big reasons that we beat Army is that we had two full weeks to get ready," said Eddie Erdelatz, moon-faced, 36-year-old coach of the future admirals. "With the same type of preparation I think we might have won some other games we lost."

Navy's convincing triumph in Philadelphia's Municipal stadium Saturday, snapping Army's 28-game unbeaten streak, left baffled experts clawing for explanations.

Army's Coach Earl (Red) Blaik accepted the setback without excuses and apparently without surprise.

"I've said all along Navy was due to explode against somebody," he said. "They have excellent personnel—rugged and hungry to win. They just kicked the heck out of us, that's all."

There was no question about that. Navy's fierce-charging line limited the powerful Cadets to 77 yards rushing and five first downs. Army had scoring opportunities—two within the ten-yard line in the final five minutes—but they were snuffed out by Navy's alert defenders.

Erdelatz, in his freshman year as coach of the Middies, credited the victory to "desire and spirit."

"I know that sounds corny coming from a former pro coach," the bull-shouldered young tutor said. "It was strictly a team job. The boys never doubted they could do it."

CARDS UPSET CHICAGO BEARS

New York, Dec. 4 (AP)—Just when things looked blackest, the Los Angeles Rams got a reprieve in the National Football league.

That came yesterday when the Chicago Cardinals upset the Chicago Bears, 20 to 10, before 31,919 in Chicago's Comiskey Park.

A week ago the Bears whipped the Rams and went into first place in the National conference. They had only to beat the Cards and Detroit Lions in their last two games to take the divisional title.

But yesterday changed everything. Cheered by the Cards' upset, the Rams walloped Green Bay, 51-14, before 39,323 at Los Angeles. Now the Bears must beat Detroit next Sunday to tie the Rams and force a division playoff.

A playoff for the American conference crown also loomed as the Cleveland Browns and New York Giants remained tied for the top. The Browns defeated Philadelphia, 13 to 7, before 37,490 at Cleveland and the Giants walloped the New York Yanks, 51-7, before 41,030 at the Polo Grounds.

In two other games yesterday that had no bearing on the title, Washington drubbed Pittsburgh, 34-7, before 19,741 at Forbes Field and Detroit swamped Baltimore, 45-21, before 12,659 at Baltimore.

TWO WARRIORS SELECTED FOR SOUTH PENN 11

Gettysburg high school gained two first team positions, two second team places and two honorable mentions in the 1950 South Penn All-Conference football selections made recently by the South Penn Sportswriters' association and announced today for the first time.

Clyde Cleveland, Warrior guard, who gained a first team spot as a sophomore a year ago, repeated in gaining another first team position.

Eugene "Soapy" Davis, center, a senior and honorary captain of the Warriors, gained the nod for the snapper-back position.

Named to the second team were Dick Harriel, junior end, and Dick Miller, senior back. The latter fractured his collarbone at Shippensburg and missed the last three games.

Honorable mentions were gained by Bill Heyser, senior end, and Bobby Miller, sophomore back.

Carlisle, conference champions, gained the lions' share in the selections with four first places; four second places, and two honorable mentions.

The second-place Chambersburg high outfit placed three on the first team; one on the second team, while four were given honorable mentions.

The remaining first team spots went to "Reds" Rightmire, Hanover back, and Guy Basti, Hershey ball carrier, who finished second in the conference scoring to Mike Waters.

Rightmire polled the highest number of votes with a total of 33 out of a possible 35. He is a brother of Whitey Rightmire, Albright full-back, and Jim Rightmire, another redhead, who played at Lock Haven Teachers' college this fall and was a quarterback for Hanover prior to the war. All of the brothers are placement kickers. By polling the highest number of votes Rightmire is acclaimed as the honorary captain of the team.

In addition to Cleveland there is one other repeater from the 1949 first team—Donald "Mike" Waters, Chambersburg back. Waters, who completed his fourth season for the Trojans, took the conference scoring honors with 78 points, six more than in 1949 when he also was the high scorer. In 1948 Waters was an honorable mention in the selections.

Sports Roundup

(By The Associated Press)

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

Charlottesville, Va., Dec. 4 (AP)—The gentleman who's caught in the middle when the controversial NCAA Sanity code comes up for discussion sometimes leaves you wondering just where he stands in the controversy.

... When the University of Virginia became the No. 1 non-complier, President Colgate W. Darden automatically was given the role of spokesman for the dissenters. ... He rejects this because he's "not qualified." ... Darden is disarmingly casual in his discussion of the problem, but he firmly reiterates his stand that the code should be broadened to allow an athlete his "keep" instead of merely tuition. ... "We have to draw a line somewhere," he explains, indicating where he thinks it should be. "Some colleges are spending large amounts of money professing to 'aid' football." ... In other words, he seems to be on both sides at once and equally sincere in both stands.

NOT TO BE SNEEZED AT

Darden's idea is just this: "I know a boy can't play football, keep up with his studies and work his way through college. Football takes up too much time, not only in the fall but in the spring. ... It's his work." ... If the rest of the NCAA doesn't agree, you feel he wouldn't mind dropping out of the organization. ... But you feel sure he'll be in Dallas next month scripping for the policy he wants. ... Darden may have eschewed the possibility of abandoning big time football for more comfortable backyard rivalries, but if he did, he rejected it as impractical. Certainly it wouldn't have been smart to mention de-emphasis to the wide-eyed alumni who celebrated the first victory in six years over North Carolina Saturday night. ... In the midst of more pressing problems, one of which is the possibility that the military draft may de-populate the colleges before another football season, it still is obvious that Virginia's president knows a code in the head also can be a pain in the neck.

SNOW JOKE

Best story heard so far about difficulties caused by the recent snow storm concerns Bill Gordon, Penn State cross country runner. ... Bill was slated to run in the National Collegiate meet but got permission to go home to Jeannette, Pa., for Thanksgiving. ... "Join the team in the Pittsburgh station Saturday night," he was told. ... Bill made it by walking 15 miles through 20 inch snow. And on Monday at East Lansing he finished 17th in the big race. ... Well, there's nothing like a good warmup.

3 MAJOR GRID TEAMS FINISH PERFECT YEAR

New York, Dec. 4 (AP)—College football's "death march" is over and only three—Oklahoma, Princeton and Wyoming—have survived the nation's unbeaten and untied major teams.

Oklahoma's Sugar Bowl bound Sooners finished up their season in a blaze of glory Saturday by trouncing Oklahoma A and M, 41-14, for their 31st straight victory. Princeton and Wyoming completed unbeaten and untied seasons a week ago.

However, Army failed to make it, going down before an inspired Navy team, 14-2, before 103,200 fans at Philadelphia's Municipal stadium.

The Navy victory, in the 51st meeting of these traditional rivals, snapped a 28-game unbeaten streak built up by the Black Knights of the Hudson over a three-season span.

Other pre-season favorites for national honors also ended on a dismal note. Notre Dame's once mighty Irish ate crow for the fourth time at Los Angeles by dropping a 9-7 decision to the Southern California Trojans and Southern Methodist's Mustangs lost their fourth game to Texas Christian's Horned Frogs, 27-13, at Dallas.

Sooners Remp

Oklahoma toyed with its traditional rival A and M for one period. The score was locked at 7-7 after the first but the Sooners then opened up with 23 points in the second to wrap it up. Quarterback Claude Arnold led the Sooner drive with four touchdown passes. The Sooners have a post season date with Kentucky in the Sugar Bowl at New Orleans on New Year's Day. Kentucky ended its season a week ago by losing its first game, 7-0, to Tennessee.

Tennessee, which meets Texas in the Cotton Bowl, tuned up for the New Year's Day battle by smothering Vanderbilt, 43-0. The Vols have lost only one game, an early season decision to Mississippi State. Texas, which ends its season against Louisiana State this week, also has only one blot on its record, a 14-13 defeat at the hands of Oklahoma. L.S.U. battled Tulane to a 14-14 tie Saturday.

PENNA. COURT SEASON OPENS

Philadelphia, Dec. 4 (AP)—Villanova, Temple and Muhlenberg, three highly rated Pennsylvania basketball teams, opened their 1950-51 cage seasons with victories Saturday.

Villanova turned back Iona college of New Rochelle, N. Y., 77-59; Temple swamped the University of Delaware, 80-45, and Muhlenberg barely got past Moravian, 70-66.

The University of Pennsylvania, a dark horse in pre-season estimates, rallied to defeat the University of Scranton, 76-59.

In other games, Lafayette downed Upsala 83-66; Rhode Island State turned back St. Joseph's, 78-68; Lycoming scored a surprising 70-63 victory over Juniata; Rutgers; Rutgers trounced Pennsylvania Military College, 91-57, and Ursinus downed Philadelphia Textile, 62-50.

The first big basketball Saturday of the season produced its share of stars, notably two promising sophomores and a pair of veterans. The veteran stars were Bill Mikvy of Temple who amassed 30 points in the easy Temple victory, and George Davidson, all-Pennsylvania star for Lafayette, who racked up 21 points for the Leopards.

Getting in their innings were Sophomores Larry Hennessey of Villanova, a 24-point producer, and Ernie Beck, of Penn., who entered the game with Scranton in the third quarter with Penn trailing by a point and set off a 12-point spurge that sewed up the game. Beck got 13 points in less than 20 minutes.

The remaining first team spots went to "Reds" Rightmire, Hanover back, and Guy Basti, Hershey ball carrier, who finished second in the conference scoring to Mike Waters.

Rightmire polled the highest number of votes with a total of 23 out of a possible 35. He is a brother of Whitey Rightmire, Albright full-back, and Jim Rightmire, another redhead, who played at Lock Haven Teachers' college this fall and was a quarterback for Hanover prior to the war. All of the brothers are placement kickers. By polling the highest number of votes Rightmire is acclaimed as the honorary captain of the team.

In addition to Cleveland there is one other repeater from the 1949 first team—Donald "Mike" Waters, Chambersburg back. Waters, who completed his fourth season for the Trojans, took the conference scoring honors with 78 points, six more than in 1949 when he also was the high scorer. In 1948 Waters was an honorable mention in the selections.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

Charlottesville, Va., Dec. 4 (AP)—The gentleman who's caught in the middle when the controversial NCAA Sanity code comes up for discussion sometimes leaves you wondering just where he stands in the controversy.

When the University of Virginia became the No. 1 non-complier, President Colgate W. Darden automatically was given the role of spokesman for the dissenters. . . . He rejects this because he's "not qualified."

Darden is disarmingly casual in his discussion of the problem, but he firmly reiterates the stand that the code should be broadened to allow an athlete his "keep" instead of merely tuition. . . .

"We have to draw a line somewhere," he explains, indicating where he thinks it should be. "Some colleges are spending large amounts of money professionalizing football."

In other words, he seems to be on both sides at once and equally sincere in both stands.

NOT TO BE SNEEZED AT

Darden's idea is just this: "I know a boy can't play football, keep up with his studies and work his way through college. Football takes up too much time, not only in the fall but in the spring. . . . It's his work."

If the rest of the NCAA doesn't agree, you feel he wouldn't mind dropping out of the organization. . . . But you feel sure he'll be in Dallas next month scrapping for the policy he wants. . . . Darden may have explored the possibility of abandoning big time football for more comfortable backyard rivalries, but if he did, he rejected it as impractical. . . . Certainly it wouldn't have been smart to mention deemphasis to the wild-eyed alumni who celebrated the first victory in six years over North Carolina Saturday night. . . . In the midst of more pressing problems, one of which is the possibility that the military draft may de-populate the colleges before another football season, it still is obvious that Virginia's president knows a code in the head also can be a pain in the neck.

SNOW JOKE

Best story heard so far about difficulties caused by the recent snow storm concerns Bill Gordon, Penn State cross country runner. . . . Bill was slated to run in the National Collegiate meet but got permission to go home to Jeannette, Pa., for Thanksgiving. . . . "Join the team in the Pittsburgh station Saturday night," he was told. . . . Bill made it by walking 15 miles through 20 inch snow. And on Monday at East Lansing he finished 17th in the big race. . . . Well, there's nothing like a good warmup.

3 MAJOR GRID TEAMS FINISH PERFECT YEAR

New York, Dec. 4 (AP)—College football's "death march" is over and only three—Oklahoma, Princeton and Wyoming—have survived the nation's unbeaten and untied major teams.

Oklahoma's Sugar Bowl bound Sooners finished up their season in a blaze of glory Saturday by trouncing Oklahoma A and M, 41-14, for their 31st straight victory. Princeton and Wyoming completed unbeaten and untied seasons a week ago.

However, Army failed to make it, going down before an inspired Navy team, 14-2, before 107,200 fans at Philadelphia's Municipal stadium.

The Navy victory, in the 51st meeting of these traditional rivals, snapped a 28-game unbeaten streak built up by the Black Knights of the Hudson over a three-season span.

Other pre-season favorites for national honors also ended on a dismal note. Notre Dame's once mighty Irish ate crow for the fourth time at Los Angeles by dropping a 9-7 decision to the Southern California Trojans and Southern Methodist's Mustangs lost their fourth game to Texas Christian's Horned Frogs, 27-13, at Dallas.

Sooners Ramp

Oklahoma toyed with its traditional rival A and M for one period. The score was locked at 7-7 after the first but the Sooners then opened up with 23 points in the second to wrap it up. Quarterback Claude Arnold led the Sooner drive with four touchdown passes. The Sooners have a post season date with Kentucky in the Sugar Bowl at New Orleans on New Year's Day. Kentucky ended its season a week ago by losing its first game, 7-0, to Tennessee.

Tennessee, which meets Texas in the Cotton Bowl, tuned up for the New Year's Day battle by smothering Vanderbilt, 43-0. The Vols have lost only one game, an early season decision to Mississippi State. Texas, which ends its season against Louisiana State this week, also has only one blot on its record, a 14-13 defeat at the hands of Oklahoma. LSU, battled Tulane to a 14-14 tie Saturday.

PENNA. COURT SEASON OPENS

Philadelphia, Dec. 4 (AP)—Villanova, Temple and Muhlenberg, three highly rated Pennsylvania basketball teams, opened their 1950-51 season with victories Saturday.

Villanova turned back Iona college of New Rochelle, N. Y., 77-59; Temple swamped the University of Delaware, 80-45, and Muhlenberg barely got past Moravian, 70-66.

The University of Pennsylvania, a dark horse in pre-season estimates, rallied to defeat the University of Scranton, 76-59.

In other games, Lafayette downed Upsala 83-66; Rhode Island State turned back St. Joseph's, 78-68; Lycoming scored a surprising 70-63 victory over Juniata; Rutgers; Rutgers trounced Pennsylvania Military College, 91-57, and Ursinus downed Philadelphia Textile, 62-59.

The first big basketball Saturday of the season produced its share of stars, notably two promising sophomores and a pair of veterans. The veteran stars were Bill Mikvy of Temple who amassed 30 points in the easy Temple victory, and George Davidson, all-Pennsylvania star for Lafayette, who racked up 21 points for the Leopards.

Getting in their innings were Sophomores Larry Hennessey of Villanova, a 24-point producer, and Ernie Beck, of Penn, who entered the game with Scranton in the third quarter with Penn trailing by a point and set off a 12-point spurge that sewed up the game. Beck got 13 points in less than 20 minutes.

The Year-End Bargains You've Been Waiting For At C. W. EPLEY INDOOR SHOWROOM

 osts, on Moul, Moul was unable to pay immediately and was placed in custody of the sheriff. At the same time he was arrested on a charge of heating and false pretense in connection with the purchase of the car from Lerew.

Bolted for Pills
 Taken before Justice of the Peace John H. Baschore, Moul, while waiting for his bondsman and the district attorney to conclude their discussion, told the sheriff he was ill and asked to be taken to the men's room.

In the men's room on the second floor of the Murphy building, he asked the sheriff to go back to the justice's office and get a glass so he could drink some water.

When the sheriff stepped out of the bathroom to get the glass, Moul slipped down the stairs from the second floor and the sheriff gave chase. That flight went south on Baltimore street and around the corner on West Middle street before the sheriff caught up with Moul. He told the sheriff he was sick and he planned to get some pills from his truck. Shultz took him to the truck where it appeared that the pills could not be found.

The sheriff returned Moul to the justice's office in the Murphy building. As they were starting up the steps again, Moul leaped over, saying something about his shoe, then lurched and began to run north on Baltimore street, with the sheriff in pursuit.

"He Went That Way"
 The chase continued around Lincoln Square to Chambersburg street and Moul ran west on Chambersburg street, with the sheriff shouting to people along the street to halt the fugitive. A number of people attempted to grab Moul, but he eluded them.

At Christ Lutheran church Moul ran across the lawn of the church to the alley. By this time he had been ahead of the sheriff, but persons along the street kept telling the sheriff "He went that way." While the chase was going on Mrs. Charles Hess, Sr., who was staying at the home of her son in the first block of South Washington street, was feeding Charles Junior Hess's children, 12-year-old Nancy, 10-year-old Patricia and one and a half year old Terry. They were waiting the arrival of Charles Junior Hess from his work as a clerk in the City Market.

Suddenly the front door opened and a man came into the front room and sat down on a sofa. Mrs. Hess went to the living room and he the man asked if he could have an alkali-seltzer.

Sheriff Turns Up
 The sheriff meanwhile ran down the alley to South Washington street.

Charles Junior Hess, who had just about reached home when he saw Moul run into his house, called to the sheriff, "He went in here," and held the door open for the sheriff to enter the home. The sheriff grabbed Moul and took him from the house. Mrs. Hess said she did not have time to answer Moul's question before the sheriff appeared and nabbed him. The children did not see the intruder.

Moul was placed in jail in default of bail on the cheating by false pretense charge, his bondsman having changed his mind after Moul attempted to escape. In addition he was in jail for failure to pay the costs in the bad check case.

And the sheriff added that by this afternoon Moul will also face charges of attempting to escape the law—filed by the sheriff personally.

Jury members in the Moul case included Clarence Boyd, Littlestown R. 2; J. S. Deatrick, Aspers R. 1; John H. Flickinger, Littlestown; Mrs. Viola Gebhart, Hanover R. 4; Evidene Jaar, New Oxford R. The state is seeking damages from Musselman in connection with an accident August 8, 1949, when Musselman's car and a state police car driven by Cpl. Jack Barnett collided here on the Hanover road.

The Musselman case is the first of six civil cases listed for the current term of court. Seven were originally scheduled but the action in trespass brought by Charles W. Thompson, Florence Thompson, Edward Graff, George N. Brown, Esther Brown and John Brown against Richard M. and John W. White has been continued.

GIVES LIFE TO SAVE OTHERS

Dallas, Dec. 1 (AP)—A National guard flyer yesterday elected to die in his flaming jet fighter rather than risk the lives of scores of Sunday drivers.

First Lt. James Arthur Bradley of Dallas was killed when he flew the burning plane off the Hensley field runway and over about 100 automobiles parked at the end of the strip. He crash landed in a thinly populated area just beyond the field.

Lt. Col. E. M. Taylor, base commander, said he would recommend Bradley for the Congressional Medal of Honor because the lieutenant's action probably saved many lives.

An internal explosion in the F-84 jet set it afire on the take-off. Officers watching said Bradley could have stopped this takeoff and escaped. But the automobiles, filled with spectators, were parked at the end of the runway.

He flew the plane over the cars rather than risk plowing through a wire fence and into them.

Bradley, 32, was a veteran of 139 combat missions in World War II. He was married and the father of two young children. He was attached to the 191st Fighter Squadron of the Texas Air National Guard.

ONE HUNDRED YEARS AGO

Presidents Message: In the preceding page will be found the message of President Fillmore to Congress. Rarely, if ever, has a document of this kind given such general satisfaction, and elicited so much praise from men of all political parties. Indeed, we have yet to hear the first word of condemnation. . . . He writes no words in bravado, but there is a firmness of tone which is becoming the Chief Magistrate of the Republic. As regards the Tariff, he is sound, and his recommendations are such as to receive the approbation of Pennsylvania. In reference to the Compromise laws of last session, his remarks will receive, we think, a very general response of approval — except from fanatics. Upon the whole, we cannot refrain from reiterating our delight in its perusal; and speaking of it as one of the most suitable and admirable documents we have met with for many years.

The Credentials of the Hon. Joel B. Danner, representative from this District, in the room of Hon. Henry Nes, deceased, were presented on Monday to the House of Representatives, by Mr. Dimmick, of Pa. They were received and Mr. D. appeared and took the oath to support the Constitution of the United States.

L.O.O.F. Bible Presentation: The Ladies of Gettysburg have determined to present Gettys Lodge No. 124, L.O.O.F., with a beautiful copy of the bible and Wednesday, the 11th of December has been fixed as the day for its presentation, when the members of the Order will turn out in procession, in full Regalia.

Today's Talk

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

FIVE MINUTES

Napoleon wrote that the reason why he beat the Austrians was that they did not know the value of five minutes. It took Lincoln less than five minutes to deliver his immortal Gettysburg Address. It took William Jennings Bryan less than five minutes to electrify a great political convention with but a single expression that gave him the nomination for the Presidency of the United States.

Five minutes have been employed in many a cruel manner, but I prefer to mention only the good and the worthy things that can be accomplished by the use of five minutes. In five minutes we can say an encouraging word to one discouraged, or we can express appreciation to someone. We can write a cheerful note, send a wire, or write a letter to someone not expecting it—and that five minutes will burn a light in our heart.

The last five minutes before you fall asleep at night can be employed in thinking out a few of the useful things that you will do upon the morrow. Five minutes of worry, however, will spoil it all! So confine your thoughts to pleasant things, and breathe a prayer of thanks to God for all the blessings that have been, and still are, yours. No sleeping pill can surpass this simple procedure.

Five minutes of daily reading something interesting, helpful, and inspiring will lead you to devote ten times this amount of time to the same happy experience. Many of the most inspiring talks I have listened to were over in five minutes. You can read the Beatitudes of Christ in five minutes—and think about them during a lifetime.

The great salesman sells himself and his product in the first five minutes. Thereafter follow only the details. This is something to bear in mind by those who complain about not being able to make a desired sale. Those first five minutes plant a seed of desire in the mind of the prospective buyer, or they do not. It's that seed that grows into an order!

Five minutes of self-examination each day may well make a new individual out of anyone.

Tomorrow Mr. Adams will talk on the subject: "Frontiers."

Cold Frame Shelters Young Garden Plants All Winter

Though used for thousands of years by gardeners, cold frames are just as useful now as in the days of the Roman empire. Originally pits in which plants could be protected on cold nights by a covering, the best all-around method is to pot the plants, and set them into the frame. Such treatment assures a few more weeks of growth, and will enable them to benefit from extra warmth in the spring and get an early start.

Perennials which are difficult to grow without this protection include the foxgloves with their stately spires, the Canterbury bells and delphiniums. Although they are perfectly hardy so far as cold weather is concerned, they are very susceptible to wet weather, and thawing and freezing. There is only one safe way to grow them in cold climates and that is by wintering them in a cold frame, where they will be safe from wet and the changes in temperature will be tempered by the glass of the frame.

Hyacinths, early tulips, narcissi and daffodils are the principal ones which need a dark, cool situation to encourage early root formation. Bury them in the frame bed in the pots you expect to grow them in, and when roots have developed sufficiently bring them indoors for the quick growth of the tops and blossoms.

The frosts of late fall bring to mind problems of harboring pansy and perennial seedlings. If you plant them late they will no doubt need some additional protection, and the cold frame will provide it. The best all-around method is to pot the plants, and set them into the frame. Such treatment assures a few more weeks of growth, and will enable them to benefit from extra warmth in the spring and get an early start.

AIDING WILDLIFE IN WINTER

When vast stretches of native forest covered the land, quails and other upland birds, skunks, raccoons, minks, opossums, squirrels, rabbits and other small game animals found a plentiful supply of natural foods all winter. But with the destruction of the woodlands and even the elimination of shrubs and vines from fence rows and most idle areas of the countryside, wildlife is dwindling mainly for lack of sustenance from late fall until late spring. It is the bridge this otherwise impassable chasm of want that farmers should plan a simple program of adequate feeding and care.

In many instances there is no desire on the farmer's part to protect and increase the numbers of rabbits, minks, raccoons and opossums on his land. But in the skunk he knows he has a valuable friend that helps keep field mice, moles and other harmful animals and many destructive beetles under control. And of course the quail merits careful protection wherever it survives.

In a long-range program there should be clumps of berry-bearing shrubs and vines planted or saved in out-of-the-way nooks where quails may find shelter from inclement weather, harbor from hawks and other enemy birds, and all-winter fruits and seeds for food. Low-growing evergreens are useful in this general role.

But in addition to these measures quails usually need an extra bit of food to supplement even a liberal supply from nature and particularly an emergency feeding when snow covers the round for long periods.

A sheltered area beneath low evergreens or behind dense clumps of deciduous brush and vines makes an excellent place to furnish birds these extra winter treats. After two or three feedings they become expectant and eagerly await their

Lime Aids Lilacs In Acid Soils

It is not unusual to find healthy lilacs blooming in slightly acid soil, yet experience has proved that alkaline soils, and especially plants that fail to bloom altogether or are shy bloomers, respond almost miraculously to a heavy application of lime.

This can be applied right now so as to benefit next season's growth. The effect from pulverized limestone is slower than that from hydrated lime, but it has the advantage of not caking if left on the surface.

When hydrated lime is used—and it may be applied as a quarter-inch layer as far as the roots reach—hoe it lightly into the surface to prevent caking. With many of the roots staying close to the surface it is not wise to attempt working it more than an inch deep.

STUDY NEW GAS TAX
Miami Beach, Fla., Dec. 4 (AP)—Governor-elect John S. Fine, was reported today to be backing a move to re-enact the state's emergency one-cent gasoline tax. The "emergency" levy was put into effect by the 1949 legislature after Governor James H. Duff said it was needed to help finance his road improvement program. The levy increased the state's gasoline tax from four to five cents a gallon.

meals. If no such shelter is found, evergreen boughs or a shock or two of corn fodder may be arranged to form a retreat where feed will be protected from snow and rain.

Some wheat, oats, rye, millet, cracked corn or grain screenings makes satisfactory feed for quails. If wheat, oats, rye, millet or buckwheat is kept in the sheaf for this purpose the birds will do their own threshing and the activity will prove beneficial. Farmers may save screenings and other so-called "waste" cereals expressly for quail feeding. Then too, if a few rows of sunflowers are grown along idle fence rows or across the side of the garden or truck field, heads may be suspended from low branches of evergreens for quails. Sunflower seed furnishes birds a nutritional oil in addition to a high rate of proteins.

The "when" of game bird feeding takes on even more importance than the "what." Birds relish most kinds of simple grains. But if feeding is practiced on a hit-and-miss basis and not on a consistent schedule to meet actual needs, the benefits of the best of rations will be lost. It requires but a few days of complete foodlessness to bring death from starvation when snow covers the ground. Therefore, effective feeding means considerably systematic feeding. Next summer these friends will repay the debt many times over in predaceous insects they consume.

POTTSVILLE BLAZE

Pottsville, Pa., Dec. 4 (AP)—Fire raged through the F. W. Woolworth store in the heart of Pottsville's business Saturday, destroying the entire stock of merchandise. It also damaged an adjoining shoe store and S. S. Kresge store. Owners of the building, in which the Woolworth store was located, estimated total damage at $500,000. Two firemen were overcome by smoke.

Blame Deaths On Carbon Monoxide

Fayetteville, N. C., Dec. 4 (AP)—Army physicians have reported that two soldiers, whose bodies were found along with those of three civilians in a garage here Thursday, died of carbon monoxide poisoning.

Army medical authorities examined the bodies of the soldiers at nearby Ft. Bragg shortly after the discovery of the five bodies.

TRUMAN-ATTLEE MEETING EASES WAR TENSION

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
(AP Foreign Affairs Analyst)

Announcement of the coming meeting between President Truman and British Prime Minister Attlee in Washington to consider the Korean crisis—with the possibility that French Premier Plevin may join them—already has eased tension among the democracies.

Observers on both sides of the Atlantic, and especially in western Europe, have been expressing fear that the common interests of the Big Three might suffer from lack of coordination of policies. This uneasiness had been emphasized by the grave threat of a major war growing out of Red China's assault on the United Nations forces in Korea.

Thus one can understand the spirit which moved the usually staid old British House of Commons to break into cheers when Attlee announced that he was going to confer with President Truman.

Tension Understandable

Just prior to this about 100 Laborite members of Commons had urged Attlee to emphasize that Britain couldn't be committed in Korea by any decisions made outside the United Nations. They wanted him to declare that British forces would be withdrawn from Korea if any unilateral action were taken.

This request obviously was inspired by widespread criticism both in England and in France of what was described as "political activities" by General MacArthur. Foreign Secretary Bevin answered this by declaring that MacArthur's objectives were those of the U.N.

Western Europe's high tension is quite understandable if you have had first hand observation of what they have experienced in two world wars. Great cities still stand in the ruins to which they were reduced by bombing. Untold thousands of civilians perished under this hurricane of death. The entire way of life has been changed in many areas.

The people of western Europe have had their fill of war. Yet they know that the Korean crisis has brought them once more face to face with the possibility of another upheaval. They know that if this should come, it would set the great Russian military machine to rolling westward towards the English channel.

Naturally one of western Europe's chief worries is that in event of another world war Russia likely would use atomic bombs (if she has them). Europe knows all too well what destruction can be wrought by "ordinary" bombs. She doesn't want anything to do with the atomic variety. That is why there is a European bloc which feels that America shouldn't employ the atom bomb without agreement by her allies.

So unless the situation takes a quick change for the worse, the allied meeting in Washington should give further encouragement to the democracies.

Grand Jury Meets Hostile Reception

Philadelphia, Dec. 4 (AP) — For the second straight month, a Philadelphia county grand jury has reported it met "unpleasant hostility" on the party of officials of the Eastern State penitentiary.

The November grand jury told Judge Eugene V. Alessandrini on Friday that when it attempted to inspect conditions at the prison it was "cut short."

Mrs. Marian R. Stroud, one of the 10-member jury (15 women and four men), said there were a "good many questions asked by the members of the jury which went unanswered."

Last month, after a similar report by the October grand jury, Warden Cornelius Burke said members of the grand jury were not permitted to go through the prison yards "because dangerous prisoners were there at the time and it was not safe."

Alessandrini said he will send the report to Maj. Gen. Frank A. Warner, president of the penitentiary's board of trustees.

Logan To Retain His Cabinet Post

Miami Beach, Fla., Dec. 4 (AP) — Governor-elect John S. Fine already has reappointed six members of the Duff cabinet. He has replaced only one.

The latest cabinet reappointment is Budget Secretary Edward B. Logan of Harrisburg.

Previously Fine announced he will retain the following members of Gov. James H. Duff's official family: Agriculture Secretary Miles Horst,

Dr. Eisenhower Has UMT Proposal

State College, Pa., Dec. 4 (AP) — Dr. Milton S. Eisenhower says if universal military training becomes necessary in America affected youths should be allowed to choose their own periods of service.

Otherwise, the Pennsylvania State college president told a faculty-trustee meeting recently, the consequences might prove financially disastrous to many colleges.

The most feasible plan for any universal military training law, he asserted, "is that of giving each young man a choice of serving his two years in the military at any time between the ages of 18 and 26."

Dr. Eisenhower said that instead of this method, a plan may be presented soon to require two years service of all youths between 18 and 20. "A plan of this kind, if continued over a period of years, could cause this nation to decline with great rapidity, economically, intellectually and even militarily," he said.

FOUR OF FAMILY PERISH IN FIRE

Philadelphia, Dec. 4 (AP) — Four brothers and sisters died of burns and smoke inhalation Saturday in a fire that damaged a four-story south Philadelphia tenement house.

Eight other occupants of the building were burned or injured, two of them critically, and police estimated 20 additional persons jumped to safety from the building.

The dead, all negroes, were Juanita Ector, 15, her sister, Emma, six, and their brothers, Frank, 12, and Robert, 14. Firemen said their parents were away when the fire started about 4 a.m.

Lee Hill, 35, his wife, Jennie, 29, and their daughter, Gloria Joan, five, were taken to Pennsylvania hospital suffering from severe burns. Mr. and Mrs. Hill are in critical condition.

The tenement house is located just south of South street, between 5th and 6th streets. Firemen said it had no central heating system, with separate stoves used to heat each apartment. Deputy Coroner Frank Leventhal said the fire apparently started from hot ashes from a stove in the basement, and swept quickly up the stairway, filling the building with smoke and flames.

Occupants of the building were trapped in their apartments by the blaze, and a number jumped from windows before firemen arrived to assist them down ladders.

Secretary of Revenue Otto F. Messner, Highways Secretary Ray F. Smock, Welfare Secretary William C. Brown and Adjutant General Frank A. Weber.

The only new cabinet member named by Fine so far is former state Senator Andrew J. Sordani of Wilkes-Barre, an intimate of the governor-elect. Fine presently is spending his "working" vacation at Sordani's Miami Beach home. Sordani replaces Theodore Roosevelt, III, as secretary of commerce.

Political associates report that Fine, former state Superior court judge, will not reappoint at least eight other members of the Duff cabinet to the $15,000-a-year jobs they now hold.

Charges Mate With Being A Bigamist

Johnstown, Pa., Dec. 4 (AP) — Robert Hooper, an unemployed salesman, is in city jail today facing a charge of bigamy lodged against him by his first wife.

Police arrested Hooper in a New Castle hotel room where he had been staying with his bride of five days, Gladys Burkhard, 24. The two of them were married in a Johnstown church last Saturday.

Hooper's first wife and mother of his six-year-old son obtained the bigamy warrant, she told police, after reading about her husband's second marriage in a newspaper.

The first Mrs. Hooper declared her husband borrowed $10 from her just before marrying Miss Burkhard. Mrs. Hooper said she thought he intended to buy chains for their automobile with the money.

Hooper was returned from New Castle on Friday after his second wife visited him in jail to embrace and encourage him. She said she had no idea Robert was already married when she became his wife.

ONE HUNDRED YEARS AGO

Presidents Message: In the preceding page will be found the message of President Fillmore to Congress. Rarely, if ever, has a document of this kind given such general satisfaction, and elicited so much praise from men of all political parties. Indeed, we have yet to hear the first word of condemnation. . . . He writes no words in bravado, but there is a firmness of tone which is becoming the Chief Magistrate of the Republic. As regards the Tariff, he is sound, and his recommendations are such as to receive the approbation of Pennsylvania. In reference to the Compromise laws of last session, his remarks will receive, we think, a very general response of approval - except from fanatics. Upon the whole, we cannot refrain from reiterating our delight in its perusal; and speaking of it as one of the most suitable and admirable documents we have met with for many years.

The Credentials of the Hon. Joel B. Danner, representative from this District, in the room of Hon. Today's Talk

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

FIVE MINUTES

Napoleon wrote that the reason why he beat the Austrians was that they did not know the value of five minutes. It took Lincoln less than five minutes to deliver his immortal Gettysburg Address. It took William Jennings Bryan less than five minutes to electrify a great political convention with but a single expression that gave him the nomination for the Presidency of the United States.

Five minutes have been employed in many a cruel manner, but I prefer to mention only the good and the worthy things that can be accomplished by the use of five minutes. In five minutes we can say an encouraging word to one discouraged, or we can express appreciation to someone. We can write a cheerful note, send a wire, or write a letter to someone not expecting it—and that five minutes will burn a light in our heart.

The last five minutes before you fall asleep at night can be employed in thinking out a few of the useful things that you will do upon the morrow. Five minutes of worry, however, will spoil it all! So confine your thoughts to pleasant things, and breathe a prayer of thanks to God for all the blessings that have been, and still are, yours. No sleeping pill can surpass this simple procedure.

Five minutes of daily reading something interesting, helpful, and inspiring will lead you to devote ten times this amount of time to the same happy experience. Many of the most inspiring talks I have listened to were over in five minutes. You can read the Beatitudes of Christ in five minutes—and think about them during a lifetime.

The great salesman sells himself and his product in the first five minutes. Thereafter follow only the details. This is something to bear in mind by those who complain about not being able to make a desired sale. Those first five minutes plant a seed of desire in the mind of the prospective buyer, or they do not. It's that seed that grows into an order!

Five minutes of self-examination each day may well make a new individual out of anyone.

Tomorrow Mr. Adams will talk on the subject: "Frontiers."

Just about this time of year,

Cold Frame Shelters Young Garden Plants All Winter

Though used for thousands of years by gardeners, cold frames are just as useful now as in the days of the Roman empire. Originally pits in which plants could be protected on cold nights by a covering, which was removed when the sun shone, the chief difference today is that glass, or a translucent plastic, serves for covering.

Every complete garden needs a cold frame. It is a most useful tool all year around. If you lack this aid to garden success, fall is a good time to build it, and the illustration shows how it may be constructed and put to immediate use for rooting winter flowering bulbs.

Hyacinths, early tulips, narcissi and daffodils are the principal ones which need a dark, cool situation to encourage early root formation. Bury them in the frame bed in the pots you expect to grow them in, and when roots have developed sufficiently bring them indoors for the quick growth of the tops and blossoms.

The frosts of late fall bring to mind problems of harboring pansy and perennial seedlings. If you plant them late they will no doubt need some additional protection, and the cold frame will provide it. The best all-around method is to pot the plants, and set them into the frame. Such treatment assures a few more weeks of growth, and will enable them to benefit from extra warmth in the spring and get an early start.

ADDING WILDLIFE IN WINTER.
When vast stretches of native forest covered the land, quails and other upland birds, skunks, raccoons, minks, opossums, squirrels, rabbits and other small game animals found a plentiful supply of natural foods all winter. But with the destruction of the woodlands and even the elimination of shrubs and vines from fence rows and most idle areas of the countryside, wildlife is dwindling mainly for lack of sustenance from late fall until late spring. It is the bridge this otherwise impassable chasm of want that farmers should plan a simple program of adequate feeding and care.

In many instances there is no desire on the farmer's part to protect and increase the numbers of rabbits, minks, raccoons and opossums on his land. But in the skunk he knows he has a valuable friend that helps keep field mice, moles and other harmful animals and many destructive beetles under control. And of course the quail merits careful protection wherever it survives.

In a long-range program there should be clumps of berry-bearing shrubs and vines planted or saved in out-of-the-way nooks where quails may find shelter from inclement weather, harbor from hawks and other enemy birds, and all winter fruits and seeds for food.

Low-growing evergreens are useful in this general role.

But in addition to these measures quails usually need an extra bit of food to supplement even a liberal supply from nature and particularly an emergency feeding when snow covers the ground for long periods.

A sheltered area beneath low evergreens or behind dense clumps of deciduous brush and vines makes an excellent place to furnish birds these extra winter treats. After two or three feedings they become expectant and eagerly await their meals.

Lime Aids Lilacs In Acid Soils

It is not unusual to find healthy lilacs blooming in slightly acid soil, yet experience has proved that many ones, and especially plants that fail to bloom altogether or are shy bloomers respond almost miraculously to a heavy application of lime.

This can be applied right now so as to benefit next season's growth. The effect from pulverized limestone is slower than that from hydrated lime, but it has the advantage of not caking if left on the surface.

When hydrated lime is used—and it may be applied as a quarter-inch layer as far as the roots reach—hoe it lightly into the surface to prevent caking. With many of the roots staying close to the surface it is not wise to attempt working it more than an inch deep.

STUDY NEW GAS TAX

Miami Beach, Fla., Dec. 4 (P) — Governor-elect John S. Fine, was reported today to be backing a move to re-enact the state's emergency one cent gasoline tax. The "emergency" levy was put into effect by the 1949 legislature after Governor James H. Duff said it was needed to help finance his road improvement program. The levy increased the state's gasoline tax from four to five cents a gallon.

meals. If no such shelter is found, evergreen boughs or a shock or two of corn fodder may be arranged to form a retreat where feed will be protected from snow and rain.

Some wheat, oats, rye, millet, cracked corn or grain screenings makes satisfactory feed for quails. If wheat, oats, rye, millet or buckwheat is kept in the shed for this purpose the birds will do their own threshing and the activity will prove beneficial. Farmers may save screenings and other so-called "waste" cereals expressly for quail feeding. Then too, if a few rows of sunflowers are grown along idle fence rows or across the side of the garden or truck field, heads may be suspended from low branches of evergreens for quails. Sunflower seed furnishes birds a nutritional oil in addition to a high rate of proteins.

The "when" of game bird feeding takes on even more importance than the "what." Birds relish most kinds of simple grains. But if feeding is practiced on a hit-and-miss basis and not on a consistent schedule to meet actual needs, the benefits of the best of rations will be lost. It requires but a few days of complete foodlessness to bring death from starvation when snow covers the ground. Therefore, effective feeding means considerably systematic feeding. Next summer these friends will repay the debt many times over in predaceous insects they consume.

READY TO ADD
HUGE SUMS FOR
U.S. DEFENSES

By WILLIAM F. ARBOGAST
Washington, Dec. 4 (AP)—Congress appeared ready today to pump another $17,850,000,000 into the national defense effort to help check what President Truman called "the imperialist designs of the Soviet Union."

Hardly had the President asked for the money on Friday when the House appropriations committee started hearings.

At the end of the first of probably 10 days of hearings, committee members, Republicans and Democrats alike, told newsmen privately there is nothing much that Congress can do except provide the money.

"Can't Take Chances"

A top Republican summed up the committee attitude this way:

"It's a lot of money and it's going to mean heavier taxes for everybody but we just can't take any chances now. It would cost much more to lose the war."

There was little early inclination to try to trim the new military budget, which would boost to around $42,000,000,000 the funds appropriated by Congress for national defense for the year ending next June 30.

In fact, some influential House members said the new amount might not be enough and more may be needed later.

Some for Atomic Research

All but $1,050,000,000 of the new fund would be given to the Army, the Navy, the Air Force and the Marine Corps to put muscle on the defense machine and to buy the tools of warfare, mainly airplanes, tanks and guns.

The $1,050,000,000 was earmarked for the Atomic Energy Commission, which plans to expand its atom bomb production capacity.

Congressional leaders hurriedly fixed a tentative timetable for final action on a bill providing the extra money. They mentioned December 21 as a possible deadline.

The Senate appropriations committee arranged to start hearings Monday, questioning witnesses as quickly as the House committee finishes with them.

9,000 Pages

Among those closest with the House committee on Friday were Secretary of Defense Marshall and General Omar N. Bradley, chairman of the joint chiefs of staff. They were accompanied by an array of generals and admirals.

Rep. Mahon (D-Tex.), who is conducting the hearings, told newsmen the committee received only an overall report on the tense international situation. The details, he said, will be provided by later witnesses, starting Monday.

Mahon estimated that the prepared justifications on which the new budget request is based will take up 9,000 pages. He and other members insisted on complete justification for every dollar.

Coupled with money already provided, Mahon said, the new funds would build up and equip military forces of 1,264,000 for the Army, 855,000 for the Navy and Marine Corps and 651,000 for the Air Force.

Larger items in the new request include $4,003,500,000 for guns, tanks and other "hardware" for the Army,

Sen. Vandenberg Back In Hospital

Grand Rapids, Mich., Dec. 4 (AP) — A new hospital visit is underscoring grave doubts about Sen. Vandenberg's return to Washington next month.

Michigan's Republican statesman, 66, in poor health since he underwent a major lung operation more than a year ago, suffered a setback at his home Wednesday night and returned to Butterworth hospital here for another checkup.

His son, Arthur H. Vandenberg, Jr., said physicians had not told him they considered his father's condition "serious" at present but that the cause of the setback had not been diagnosed fully.

The son said the senator's convalescence had been "unexpectedly delayed."

"Father will have to decide with his doctor this week about going back to Washington," he added.

COMMUNISTS

LOSE IN BERLIN

Berlin, Dec. 4 (AP) — West Berlin, anti-Red political fortress 100 miles behind the iron curtain, knocked out Communism again yesterday with a record 90.4 per cent vote in municipal elections.

Disregarding Red threats and a Communist boycott, 1,504,414 of 1,664,091 eligible Berlin voters cast their ballots, complete official returns showed.

The dominant Socialists lost a third of their previous strength to the runner-up Christian Democrats and Free Democrats. The Socialists polled 653,974 votes, the Christian Democrats 360,829, the Free Democrats 337,477.

But leaders of all three parties, headed by Socialist Mayor Ernst Reuter, pledged they would continue their three-faction city coalition as a united front against Russian aggression.

Reuter said he considered a three-party coalition necessary because "in view of the international political situation, it would be out of the question to form a government here dependent on a majority of only three or four deputies."

Unofficial sources said that of the 127 seats in the Berlin House of Deputies, 61 would go to the Socialists, 34 to the Christian Democrats and 32 to the Free Democrats. A formal announcement of the seat distribution may be delayed until tomorrow, however.

ATTLEE HERE FOR CONFAB

Washington, Dec. 4 (AP) — British Prime Minister Attlee arrived here today for talks with President Truman aimed at finding a common policy in the world crisis and averting the threat of a global war.

Attlee's big four-engine British Airliner "Cathay" rolled up on the National airport apron where President Truman, Secretary of State Acheson, Defense Secretary Marshall, and other officials were waiting at about 9:45.

After the greetings, Attlee made a statement for the newsmen there.

He said his aim in the talks with Mr. Truman—which are to get under way tomorrow—"is to align our policies in the new and troubled situation in the world and to find the means of upholding what we both know to be right."

He accused the Communist bloc of trying to "drive a wedge between our two peoples."

A harsh, cold wind, driving low wet clouds swept over the port as the British and American leaders talked for a minute or so before the president returned to his waiting automobile.

York Springs—The Rev. Marcel Desgaller, a minister of the Church of God in the Carlisle area, who is also known as an evangelist, was a speaker at the morning worship services of the Church of God here last Sunday.

New Oxford High Loses To Hanover

New Oxford high school's varsity basketball team suffered a 75-21 defeat at the hands of Hanover Saturday evening on the Nighthawk's floor in a rough game.

The Hanover junior varsity captured the preliminary game 32-20. New Oxford will play its first home game Tuesday evening with North York as its opponent.

crisis in our time and it may face it either in a spirit of fear and peril or as offering a golden opportunity for the advancement of the kingdom of God. Communism, the growing power of the state and secularism are great problems faced by the church today. They are too big for a divided church and too difficult.

Marks New Epoch

Declaring that the formation of the new national council marks the beginning of a new epoch in the Christian church, the speaker said: "The keynote of that epoch is unity in the spirit of Christ and in it we shall find the hope and faith for our times."

Observing that the pendulum of the Reformation swung too far in splitting Protestants into little groups, he told of the scope of the new organization with an annual budget of $4,435,000, a staff of 150 executives in the joining of 29 denominations representing 32,105,000 persons in 135,000 local parishes. Its significance will become apparent to us only through the years ahead.

Sen. Vandenberg

Back In Hospital

Grand Rapids, Mich., Dec. 4 (AP)—A new hospital visit is underscoring grave doubts about Sen. Vandenberg's return to Washington next month.

Michigan's Republican statesman, 66, in poor health since he underwent a major lung operation more than a year ago, suffered a setback at his home Wednesday night and returned to Butterworth hospital here for another checkup.

His son, Arthur H. Vandenberg, Jr., said physicians had not told him they considered his father's condition "serious" at present but that the cause of the setback had not been diagnosed fully.

The son said the senator's convalescence had been "unexpectedly delayed."

"Father will have to decide with his doctor this week about going back to Washington," he added.

The big Sydney Harbor bridge is an Australian national symbol, similar to the Eiffel Tower or the Statue of Liberty.

COMMUNISTS LOSE IN BERLIN

Berlin, Dec. 4 (AP)—West Berlin, anti-Red political fortress 100 miles behind the Iron curtain, knocked out Communism again yesterday with a record 90.4 per cent vote in municipal elections.

Disregarding Red threats and a Communist boycott, 1,504,414 of 1,664,091 eligible Berlin voters cast their ballots, complete official returns showed.

The dominant Socialists lost a third of their previous strength to the runner-up Christian Democrats and Free Democrats. The Socialists polled 653,974 votes, the Christian Democrats 360,829, the Free Democrats 337,477.

But leaders of all three parties, headed by Socialist Mayor Ernst Reuter, pledged they would continue their three-faction city coalition as a united front against Russian aggression.

Reuter said he considered a three-party coalition necessary because "in view of the international political situation, it would be out of the question to form a government here dependent on a majority of only three or four deputies."

Unofficial sources said that of the 127 seats in the Berlin House of Deputies, 61 would go to the Socialists, 34 to the Christian Democrats and 32 to the Free Democrats. A formal announcement of the seat distribution may be delayed until tomorrow, however.

ATTLEE HERE FOR CONFAB

Washington, Dec. 4 (AP)—British Prime Minister Attlee arrived here today for talks with President Truman aimed at finding a common policy in the world crisis and averting the threat of a global war.

Attlee's big four-engine British Airliner "Cathay" rolled up on the National airport apron where President Truman, Secretary of State Acheson, Defense Secretary Marshall, and other officials were waiting at about 9:45.

After the greetings, Attlee made a statement for the newsmen there.

READY TO ADD HUGE SUMS FOR U.S. DEFENSES

By WILLIAM F. ARBOGAST

Washington, Dec. 4 (AP)—Congress appeared ready today to pump another $17,850,000,000 into the national defense effort to help check what President Truman called "the imperialist designs of the Soviet Union."

Hardly had the President asked for the money on Friday when the House appropriations committee started hearings.

At the end of the first of probably 10 days of hearings, committee members, Republicans and Democrats alike, told newsmen privately there is nothing much that Congress can do except provide the money.

"Can't Take Chances"

A top Republican summed up the committee attitude this way:

"It's a lot of money and it's going to mean heavier taxes for everybody but we just can't take any chances now. It would cost much more to lose the war."

There was little early inclination to try to trim the new military budget, which would boost to around $42,000,000,000 the funds appropriated by Congress for national defense for the year ending next June 30.

In fact, some influential House members said the new amount might not be enough and more may be needed later.

Some for Atomic Research

All but $1,050,000,000 of the new

fund would be given to the Army, the Navy, the Air Force and the Marine Corps to put muscle on the defense machine and to buy the tools of warfare, mainly airplanes, tanks and guns.

The $1,050,700,000 was earmarked for the Atomic Energy Commission, which plans to expand its atom bomb production capacity.

Congressional leaders hurriedly fixed a tentative timetable for final action on a bill providing the extra money. They mentioned December 21 as a possible deadline.

The Senate appropriations committee arranged to start hearings Monday, questioning witnesses as quickly as the House committee finishes with them.

9,000 Pages

Among those closeted with the House committee on Friday were Secretary of Defense Marshall and General Omar N. Bradley, chairman of the joint chiefs of staff. They were accompanied by an array of generals and admirals.

Rep. Mahon (D.-Tex.), who is conducting the hearings, told newsmen the committee received only an overall report on the tense international situation. The details, he said, will be provided by later witnesses, starting Monday.

Mahon estimated that the prepared justifications on which the new budget request is based will take up 9,000 pages. He and other members insisted on complete justification for every dollar.

Coupled with money already provided, Mahon said, the new funds would build up and equip military forces of 1,264,000 for the Army, 855,000 for the Navy and Marine Corps and 651,000 for the Air Force.

Larger items in the new request include $4,003,500,000 for guns, tanks and other "hardware" for the Army,

Artificial Heart, Lung To Get Test; Worked On Dogs

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE
(Associated Press Science Reporter)
Cleveland, Dec. 4 (AP) — Someday soon a human who is "clinically" dead may be brought back to life by a new artificial heart-and-lung machine.

One machine that may do this is being kept in readiness during difficult heart operations at Hahnemann hospital in Philadelphia, in case the patient's heart stops.

The machine and its potentialities were described yesterday by Dr. Charles P. Bailey, chief of chest surgery, and associates at Hahnemann, to the Ohio chapter of the American College of Chest Physicians.

Kept Dog Alive

It has worked successfully on dogs. It kept one dog alive for 71 minutes while it pumped her blood and gave it new oxygen, he said.

It took dark-red blood from two veins near the heart, by-passing the dog's own heart and lungs, and pumped refreshed, bright red blood back into an artery in the neck. The dog recovered completely after the machine was disconnected, and her own heart took over its normal work.

If this can be done safely with humans, it will make possible new kinds of chest operations and medical treatment of heart and lung diseases, the surgeon said.

The machine is the latest of a dozen or more developed in the last 20 years. The hope for this one lies in its efficient steel "lung" and special new pump. It is compact, with all its parts contained in a glass cabinet only 20 inches high, 16 inches wide and 18 inches deep.

Await First Test

Because of the risk it cannot be used now on a living person, Dr. Bailey said. Its first test probably will come when a patient dies during an operation, when his heart stops beating.

This heart stoppage is called clinical death. A person might still be revived, if blood circulation is restored quickly enough, before sensitive brain tissues are damaged. This critical time element for some people may be only two or three minutes, but there are rare cases of safe escape from death as long as eight minutes later. In these, surgeons squeezed or massaged the heart to start it ticking again.

If heart massage or other means fail, then the heart machine can be tried, the surgeon said, "for there will be nothing to lose, and everything to gain."

Holds Bright Hopes

If the machine succeeds, then there will be far brighter hopes of realizing the dreams behind the many artificial heart experiments.

One goal is to be able to open the heart, with no blood coursing through it. Surgeons would have direct clear vision of the heart's interior, and would have time, to repair faulty valves, correct blue-baby troubles, substitute new pieces of artery from an artery bank. The heart meanwhile would keep beating, receiving nourishment from the tiny capillaries, but would have no work to do.

Medically, the spare heart-lung could help in severe asthma or pneumonia, or heart diseases where the heart needs temporary help. The machine might be connected just to a vein and artery in the neck, refreshing and re-circulating the blood, but sending it through the body's own heart and lungs as well.

Steel Cylinder "Lung"

The spare heart might also bring back people whose hearts have stopped, or who are dying of shock and a dangerous fall in blood pressure.

The lung and heart of the new machine were adapted from industrial inventions.

The lung is a steel cylinder, 26 inches high, six inches wide. Transparent plastic tubes, attached to one or two veins, bring venous blood into its top by gravity. The blood trickles in tiny droplets through a mosquito-like netting stainless steel mesh, and takes up oxygen blowing up from below.

How It Works

The artificial heart, no larger than the actual human heart, pumps the blood back through another tube connected to an artery. It takes in gulps of blood, and squeezes it along in pulses, but with gentle pressure that avoids damage to fragile blood cells. The transparent plastic pump has no valves or gaskets that could contaminate the blood. The blood touches only the plastic walls and a surgical rubber liner covering the wobbling shaft that pulses the blood through.

An electric coil keeps the blood warm, and a chemical prevents clotting. The pulse rate is governed by simple controls.

The machine was developed in joint research by Hahnemann Medical college, Drexel Institute of Technology, and J. J. Ashton company, New York engineering firm.

Harrisburg, (AP)—The chambers of Pennsylvania's House of Representatives and Senate are getting a $100,000 facelift. The operation will be completed in time for the opening of the 1951 Legislature, said Frank E. Hoffman, deputy secretary of property and supplies.

Norway produces 46,000,000 matches daily, about 75 per cent use for domestic consumption.

RADIO

New York, Dec. 4 (AP) — Radio listeners turned video viewers apparently carry their program preferences into television. Current checkups place the same general types of shows at the top of the favored ratings in both mediums.

The top-rated shows are about equally divided between drama and comedy-variety production.

On radio the two leaders are the Radio Theater and Jack Benny in that order, a position they have maintained for some time. In television the same places are held by Milton Berle's Vaudeville and the Fireside Theater, a filmed drama.

Listening tonight (Monday): NBC — 8, Macrae Show "Firefly"; 9, Don Voorhees Concert; 9:30, Paul Lavalle Band of America; 10, NBC Symphony Hour.

HIGH WATERS

Seven Stars was covered with water. These roads, however, were not closed to traffic. The water did not reach a sufficient depth to stop motorists, although many were forced to go slow.

Numerous secondary and rural routes were closed by the high water. Marsh Creek was over its banks and onto the highway at the water works. Many private driveways were inundated.

The state Highway department stationed watchmen at the places where the water was deep enough to prevent motor travel. State police also warned motorists to be cautious.

Superintendent of Highways J. William Kendelhart, Jr., said the waters receded during the morning and all state highways were open to traffic this afternoon.
